DISCOVER YOUR INTUITION

Intuition and Law of Cause and Effect

Have you heard of the Law of Cause and Effect? It's also known as what you reap you sow, what you put out comes back to you, and what goes around comes around.

Your intuition informs you about the cause (root) of an event and the effect (consequence or outcome). For example, what causes you to date or marry someone? Your intuition replies, "It's for love (or companionship, money, power, etc.)."

What is the effect? Your intuition replies, "It will last because of love (or compatibility, mutual respect, friendship, etc.). Or "It will not last because of incompatibility (or financial difficulties, emotional distance, abuse, etc.)."

The Law of Cause and Effect never changes, and your intuition communicates the truth, whether you accept or reject it.

Intuition Exercise

You turn on your computer and read your emails.
A new message appears in your inbox.
The subject line reads "Inner Knowledge."
What does the email reveal about you?

Intuition Quote: "Bring me all the computer facts you want, but if the gut doesn't feel right I won't go for the deal." ."

Trees represent levels of growth, stability, desires, knowledge, and protection, and your body. Notice when trees appear in your intuitive messages.

Intuition Tip

Notice your first reaction when you receive an intuitive message. Do you:

- Trust it.
- Doubt it.
- Ignore it.

Your reactions to intuitive messages determine how smooth and easy your life will flow.

An Intuitive Experience

Oscar-Winning Actress, Halle Berry

Halle Berry acquired a dress once belonging to actress, Dorothy Dandridge, who died of a drug overdose in 1965. Halle was convinced Dorothy's ghost haunted her home. She says, "One night I was at home with a friend drinking tea, and we heard all this rustling noise. At first, I thought it was just water dripping from the teapot and then I realized it came from the den. The paper on the dress was rattling—all by itself!" She and her friend ran out of the room. After other strange things happened, she returned the dress to its owner. Her life returned to normal.
